

The Columbus Crossing Borders Project
On view May 1 - June 8, 2018
Group visits offered free of charge
dublinarts.org/columbuscrossingborders

The Columbus Crossing Borders Project will feature 34 artworks that serve as tribute to the resilience and strength of spirit that sustain those who have fled war, terror, and persecution. The artworks inspire understanding and compassion for refugees. As the viewer moves through the gallery, each painting contains an element that reaches into the adjacent artwork, creating harmonious ‘border crossings’ within the space. The Columbus Crossing Borders Project exhibition is the second iteration of Dublin Arts Council’s three-year exploration of immigration, integration, and identity.

Discover the Columbus Crossing Borders exhibition with your organization at Dublin Arts Council (DAC) through a self guided visit, free of charge.

Hands-on gallery activities, such as a video feedback booth and a digital interactive activity using iPads, will help viewers more deeply engage with the exhibition’s themes. Make your reservation today!

For more information or to schedule a visit to Dublin Arts Council, please contact Ava Morgan at morgan@dublinarts.org or 614.889.7444.

A film screening (ticketed) of the associated documentary “Breathe Free” is planned for May 10 in Dublin’s Abbey Theater. For details, please visit dublinarts.org or call 614.889.7444.
